The Challenge: Fragmented Accounts Payable Systems and Manual Processes

Endera's innovative electric vehicles and charging infrastructure solutions are shaping the future of transportation and creating a sustainable world for generations to come. A fast-growing company with complex operational needs, Endera was managing AP manually across multiple systems, including BILL, Quickbooks, and its ERP, Infor SyteLine. Entering 400-500 invoices monthly resulted in double data entry, inefficiencies, and a lack of centralization. With plans to expand from two to five active entities while integrating all financial operations into Infor SyteLine, Endera implemented Tipalti for a more efficient AP process.

"We have significantly reduced the time spent on AP. After the initial setup, processing invoices became second nature. I absolutely love Tipalti—it has made my job so easy."

The Solution: Seamless Integration With Tipalti Accounts Payable Automation

Tipalti partner HubKor built an integration that directly connected Tipalti's AP automation platform with Infor SyteLine, eliminating the need for manual data entry across different systems. This integration automated the entire payments workflow for Endera, saving time and creating a streamlined process overall. With Tipalti, Endera improved invoice management by automatically capturing, coding, and routing invoices for approval, automating vendor onboarding and data collection, and optimizing international payments by eliminating manual wire transfers. It also improved invoice processing speed and strengthened data integrity.

"Tipalti has made my job incredibly fast. I now process 800 to 1,000 invoices a month as one person, which would have required one and a half people without Tipalti."

Tipalti's integration with Infor SyteLine helped Endera transition from a fragmented, manual AP process to a streamlined, automated solution that scales with the company's growth. Endera is now able to process twice as many invoices without having to add headcount. Minimizing manual entries also made Endera's data more reliable and reduced errors. And with less administrative work, the finance team could focus on strategic initiatives that drove innovation.

"Since signing on with Tipalti, we have tripled our production. Tipalti listened to our feedback and made improvements, and now we honestly love the platform."
